Fuels/Fire Discussion

The average fuel moisture is now below the critical threshold for the first time this fire season. With little to no new growth we can expect rapid rates of spread and a high resistance to control efforts even with minimal wind.

Keep informed on fire weather conditions and forecasts.