

History

Fire Station 41, Church Street

In 1956, the Simi Fire Station was closed and the personnel and equipment relocated to a new fire station at Los Angeles Ave. and Blackstock Ave. The new station had four buildings; a four bay wide one bay deep station, two 1,000 square foot houses for the Captain and Battalion Chief and their families, and a three-car garage.

In 1960 the old Simi Fire Station reopened and stations were identified by numbers rather than names.

In 1986, a new Station 41 was built on Church Street on a larger lot that was acquired by trading the Los Angeles Ave. station and property with the Simi Valley School District.
